

Inventory Technology, Training and Tenacity Take Old Line Plumbing Company to a Whole New Level

Lutz Plumbing has more than tripled in revenue and employees over the last seven years thanks to the vision and forward-thinking leadership of company president Amber Lutz-Sewell. Smarter inventory management, better financial insights, and improved online marketing have enabled new scalability and positioned the 102-year-old firm for even more future growth.

Amber Lutz-Sewell knows an opportunity when she sees one, and she saw it in Lutz Plumbing, the Shawnee, Kansas-based plumbing business her family has run since 1920.

For as long as she can remember, she's been fascinated by the hustle and bustle of the shop, the precision of the trade, and most of all, the longevity and tradition of a family business that has lasted for more than 100 years and four generations.

"This company has been a source of family pride for a long time," Lutz-Sewell said. "And when the opportunity came up for me to join it and carry on the name, I was excited and ready to help."

Lutz-Sewell's father, Jim Lutz, had run the business for many years on his own, and in 2006 he began considering his options for retirement and readying the business for sale and transition.

At the top of his list for improving the business was inventory management since it was (and still is) the second largest expense in the company after salaries and benefits, and the general disarray of the department was likely costing the company thousands in profits each month. If more cash flow and profits were needed to fund new growth, tighter inventory controls would do it.

“We’ve jumped in with both feet on our growth plan and we couldn’t be happier with the results. And it’s not just me driving this, our whole staff has been energized over the last five years which is the real reason we’ve grown. We couldn’t do it without plumbing techs that really care, inventory partners like Hodes Co. that save us time and money, and customers who trust us with their projects.”

- Amber Lutz-Sewell, President, Lutz Plumbing

Hodes Co.'s Stock Service System, an auto-replenishment system for plumbing parts, fit the bill perfectly, and Lutz signed up as one of Hodes' first customers for the innovative service. As Jim Lutz was beginning to reap the benefits of improved inventory management and cash flow, Amber Lutz-Sewell joined the company and quickly immersed herself in the details. The new cash flow, she reasoned, could be a funding mechanism for expansion and growth.

But she needed additional expertise on the financial side and sought it out by joining the ScaleUP! program from KCSOURCELINK, a local hub for peers, connections and resources for entrepreneurship in Kansas City.

"One of the first things we did in the ScaleUP! program was look at our financials with a mentor provided by the program, and he said we had the cash flow, thanks in part to our inventory management system, and that we should add another truck and a plumber," Lutz-Sewell said. "So, we did, and that's what jumpstarted our growth."

Lutz-Sewell spent the next four months in the ScaleUP! program, and every aspect of the business was scrutinized and plans for improvements were made. Inventory, however, was one area that didn't require an overhaul, thanks to the Stock Service System from Hodes Co.

“Inventory management was easy to figure out – we just needed to keep doing what we were doing. We’ve worked with Hodes Co. for more than 50 years and have been customers of the Stock Service System for the last 15 years,” Lutz-Sewell said. “Hodes makes it easy and automatic to buy and manage inventory. Everything’s barcoded and tracked in our shop, we can place orders online, and we have exactly what we need for our trucks, our warehouse, and our customers.”

Scaling Up for Growth Begins with Better Inventory Management

“We’ve jumped in with both feet on our growth plan and we couldn’t be happier with the results,” Lutz-Sewell said. “And it’s not just me driving this, our whole staff has been energized over the last five years which is the real reason we’ve grown. We couldn’t do it without plumbing techs that really care, inventory partners like Hodes Co. that save us time and money, and customers who trust us with their projects.”

Lutz-Sewell said controlled growth has been the key. She has this advice for growing by design:

- 1. Focus on the fundamentals first. Great people and superior inventory management make everything else possible. Having the right inventory mix on hand by using Hodes Co.’s Stock Service System reduces drive times, increases billable hours, and preserves cash so it can be used for other growth investments such as marketing and advertising.
- 2. Pick an area for growth. Be specific about what you want to grow. Should it be customers? Cash flow? Profits? Service area?
- 3. Set a growth goal. Decide on success metrics that you want to achieve and then plan to monitor and measure them each month.

Create a scoreboard that easy to update and understand.

- 4. Consult the experts and get help. Don’t try to go it alone, you’ll end up wasting time and money. Outsource inventory management, advertising, and marketing to people who know what they’re doing and do it every day.
- 5. Review, revise and evaluate. Continually assess progress by tracking steps and measuring results. Adjust as needed.

Lutz-Sewell said inventory management and online marketing have made the biggest differences in profitability and new customer growth, respectively.

Lutz’s website and search engine rankings have made the company more visible to residential and commercial customers all over the Kansas City Metro Area.

“Our expanded service area makes inventory management on our trucks more important than ever,” Lutz-Sewell said. “With more ground to cover, we need to keep our techs on the road and headed to customers’ homes and businesses, not supply houses.”

Lutz-Sewell is clearly proud, but also humble about the results. She’s quick to mention that none of it would be possible without previous generations, good partners, and generous mentors.

“My family’s courage and hard work is what started it all over 100 years ago, and I’m grateful for that every day,” Lutz-Sewell said. “Along the way, we’ve also been fortunate to have good business partners like Hodes Co. on the inventory side, and entrepreneurial development programs to help us grow. It’s been an amazing run and I look forward to keeping it going for many years to come.”

The Easy Button for Inventory Control – And Increased Profits

Lanz Heating, Cooling & Plumbing in Champaign, Illinois, needed a better way to buy, organize and control its parts inventory. Technicians were spending too much time on supply house trips and product costs were higher than expected. The Stock Service System from Hodes Co. has delivered over $100,000 in benefits by reducing inventory levels, cutting supply house trips by 80 percent, and keeping technicians in the field for more service calls.

Bill Yeakel was at his wit's end. He was stumped.

Parts tracking and replenishment at Champaign, Illinois-based Lanz Heating, Cooling & Plumbing had become an ongoing friction spot and cash drain that seemed to be getting worse, no matter how hard he tried to fix it.

Yeakel runs the service group at Lanz. His technicians and their seven service trucks fan out across the Champaign metro area of 200,000-plus residents every day fixing plumbing problems big and small.

The principles of plumbing they know. But parts inventory management is an entirely different kind of challenge.

"Parts inventory has always been difficult to manage, and it was never a priority," said Yeakel. "For years, we've been on an inventory rollercoaster, having too much, not enough, and storage was always a mess. We finally said 'enough.'"

Yeakel teamed up with Lanz inventory manager and service plumber, Alex

“In just our first year of using the Stock Service System, we can point to over $100,000 in monetary benefits. We're buying smarter, we're buying less inventory, and we've got consistent margins built in to each product. We've turned a cost center into a healthy profit center for us.

Bill Yeakel,
Service Manager

Conine, to research inventory solutions. They found Hodes Co. and its Stock Service System.

Joe Hodes, the president of Hodes Co., designed the innovative inventory control system after watching too many service companies and contractors waste too much time and money on parts management.

"As a distributor, one of our core areas of expertise is inventory control, it's what we do all day, every day," said Hodes. "It just made sense that we should share our knowledge and help our customers be more successful in this area of their business."

Upgrading to Ease and Simplicity

Yeakel and Conine went to work immediately putting the Stock Service System into action. The Hodes Co. provided everything needed including recommended parts lists, online ordering, and customized shelf label templates.

Pains & Gains

Pains

- The service parts inventory at Lanz Heating, Cooling & Plumbing was too high and operated at break-even or a loss.
- Storage systems in the warehouse were disorganized, making it difficult and time-consuming to find the right parts.
- Technicians were making too many trips back to the supply house, wasting time and reducing service call productivity and profits.

Gains

- Lanz Heating, Cooling & Plumbing's new Stock Service System has automated parts inventory replenishment, control and pricing.
- Department managers and technicians can see and find quickly the parts they need in the warehouse, and Lanz service trucks are better organized.
- Parts inventory spending is down, margins are up, and cash flow has improved by more than $100,000.

"The Stock Service System appealed to us because of its step-by-step instructions," said Conine. "It was easy to understand, get started, and implement."

"And the Hodes team also made us feel welcome and appreciated. Joe Hodes called personally to check on us and make sure we were getting everything we needed. That meant a lot."

The new system has made a big difference. Service parts are better organized in the shop and on the Lanz trucks. Technicians can find what they need more quickly, and they leave the shop for the day knowing they've got what they need for their calls.

"Hodes Co. is much more than a supplier for us. They are a strategic partner and consultant that is helping us learn, grow, and make meaningful improvements in our business. We couldn't be happier with this relationship and the results."

Parts are stocked based on individual customer purchase histories and broader industry statistics. Past orders, pending orders, and payments can all be accessed 24/7 at the Hodes Co. website.

"Because we've always got our top 500 repair parts in stock, both in the shop, and on our trucks, our technicians can stay in the field longer and handle more calls," said Yeakel. "In the past, technicians were going back to the supply house 2 or 3 times per day, now they only go there 2 or 3 times per week. That is a huge productivity and revenue boosting opportunity for us."

The bottom line results are proving the real value.

"In just our first year of using the Stock Service System, we can point to over $100,000 in monetary benefits," said Yeakel. "We're buying smarter, we're buying less inventory, and we've got consistent margins built in to each product. We've turned a cost center into a healthy profit center for us."

Conine said the overall experience has been smooth and professional. Better inventory levels and profits aren't the only benefits.

"Hodes Co. is much more than a supplier for us," said Conine. "They are a strategic partner and consultant that is helping us learn, grow, and make meaningful improvements in our business. We couldn't be happier with this relationship and the results."
